

GERMAN PAPERS THREATEN IRON CLUB

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, via Amsterdam, July 14.—America's reception of the German reply to President Wilson's note has surprised Berlin officialdom. It had been expected that the German government's proffer to make extraordinary steps to protect American lives in the submarine zone would show that Germany was zealous to protect neutrals and that American comment on this pledge has caused deep disappointment.

Excerpts from editorial comment in the United States have been cabled here from London, and although understood to be tinged with British feeling, these comments indicate that the German reply is unsatisfactory. Their publication has caused a fresh outburst of feeling against America and support for Germany's submarine warfare.

The Rhine-Westphalia Journal is particularly bitter in its attack on the United States, saying: "We sought no quarrel with America, but if the American government continues to hold a shield before help-seeking England and threatens us, our honor compels us to strike the shield with an iron club."

Other newspapers assert that submarine warfare must continue and that no interference can be permitted.

While officials of the foreign offices admitted their regret that the American press had held the reply unsatisfactory, they express the hope that a further exchange of correspondence would clear up any points on which the German attitude failed to satisfy the Washington government.

BRITAIN HAS ONLY 460,000 AT FRONT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 14.—Official announcement by Lord Lansdown in parliament that there are not more than 460,000 British soldiers in the European war theater has given England the greatest shock it has received since the disaster at the Dardanelles.

Another attack on the government is anticipated as a result of Lord Lansdown's statement that the British forces consist of 23 or 24 divisions. On April 21 David Lloyd George announced that the British had 26 divisions at the front. The government opponents are expected to seize upon the discrepancy and demand an explanation.

It was similar discrepancy in cabinet ministers' statements as to war munitions that formed the basis for the recent attack upon Lord Kitchener and the conduct of the military establishment.

The British public was astounded by the Lansdown statement. It had been supposed that more than 1,000,000 soldiers had been put in the field to defend the French channel ports. The revelation by the cabinet minister has caused deep concern in view of the German successes in the Arras region.

Floating Mines Go Astray.

Las Palmas, Canary Islands, July 14.—Floating mines carried southward in the Atlantic are a menace to ships plying between South America and Europe, the captain of the Argentine steamer Patagonia reported today. He notified the maritime authorities that he had sighted a mine northeast of the coast of Brazil in latitude 4 degrees 50 minutes and longitude 31 degrees five minutes in the region of the equator. The mine was travelling southwest toward the coast at the rate of a mile an hour.

Ness Holds Hitting Record.

SOME BAKERS ARE TOO CARELESS

Sanitary Inspector Thinks They Should be Scolded—Scarlet Fever Epidemic Well in Hand—Other Reports to Board of Health.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of health was held at the city hall Tuesday evening. There were present Mayor Canfield, Commissioners Huhne, Kaufmann, Brown and McBride, Sanitary Inspector Clarke and Plumbing Inspector Dressel and Secretary Sahlhoff.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and a letter from the Public Health Council was received and placed on file. The letter was in regard to the new requirements or health officers which was recently passed by the Public Health Council.

A communication was received from Arthur C. Connelly complaining of the outside vaults on Albany avenue. Albany avenue and Elmendorf street both contain sewers and Mr. Connelly could see no reason why these parties should not be made to connect. The sanitary inspector was given power to see that all the outside vaults on the block from Albany avenue to Elmendorf street, from the railroad to Tremper avenue be removed within thirty days.

An unsigned communication was received complaining of a vault on Cedar street and after some discussion the matter was referred to the sanitary inspector with power.

Another unsigned communication was received by the board complaining about the connection of waste pipes with the gutters on Hanbury street. Dr. Clark informed the board on the subject saying that in order to abate the nuisance it would be necessary to construct a sewer or build cesspools in each yard and it is impossible to place cesspools because the yards are too small for it. There was a petition to construct a sewer but as long as the residents thought they could throw things into the gutter and get away with it they did not place the petition before the board of aldermen. The sanitary inspector was directed to notify these property owners that this was a violation of Regulation 5 of the sanitary code and that it must be stopped at once and the waste pipes disconnected. This will eventually force them to have a petition placed before the common council for the construction of a sewer. Dr. Clarke asked if when they told him to force the matter they wanted him to go the limit and end up in recorder's court if necessary. This remark lessened the severity of the commissioner's directions.

A letter which was signed "Taxpayer" complained of an Italian family which "lives under Charles McBride's nose" and whose conditions of living were thought by the taxpayer to be unsanitary. The communication caused a big laugh on Commissioner McBride. It was found out that the man is building a new place and that better living quarters will be provided in the new place but the board thought it was beyond their jurisdiction at any rate.

In regard to the swamp which runs from Third to Fourth avenue and which needs draining Dr. Clarke said that the city engineer had made an inspection of it and said that it wouldn't take very many men very many days to drain it. It is a source of annoyance to the residents in that neighborhood. The matter was referred to the health officer to inspect and to file a report with the board showing his findings and his opinion as to whether it is a nuisance and detrimental to health.

Dr. Clarke spoke about the failure of the bakers in town to enforce the board of health regulations. Mr. McBride said that one morning he had to get up early and found a baker with a lot of buns exposed on his wagon and delivering and handling buns with his hands after he had been handling the reins. He thought this was very unsanitary and thought that the board ought to score bakers according to the state department's score card and to make the score public as is done in the case of other markets.

Mr. McBride asked how many milk dealers had signs and it was found that a good many had not yet obtained their signs from the board of health rooms. It was decided that they be given ten days notice to get the signs on their wagons or they be prosecuted according to law.

It was also decided that the health officer report to the board what dairies he has issued milk permits to and that at the next meeting he file their scores and that at every meeting thereafter he file any new scores which may be made during the month.

Mrs. Van Antwerp, who has been acting as nurse during the epidemic of scarlet fever, was retained for another week at a salary of $25.

The report of Health Officer Stelle was received and placed on file and is as follows:

Health Officer's Report.
Communicable diseases reported and recorded in the month of June:
Scarlet Fever ..... 45
Typhoid fever ..... 2
Tuberculosis ..... 3
Measles ..... 1
German Measles ..... 1
Total ..... 52

Since July 1 there have been eight cases of scarlet fever, occurring as follows: July 2, 1; July 4, 1; July 5, 1; July 6, 1; July 12, 4.
Most of the cases have been traceable to direct contact with a patient. I feel that the situation is now well in hand and that from now on the cases will be fewer.

For public health nurse I was fortunate enough to secure the services of Mrs. Martha Van Antwerp, who is known to most of you as a nurse experienced in this line of work and she went on duty June 10 and has served regularly since then.

The board of health limited me to an expenditure of $100 for this service. Mrs. Van Antwerp's time on this account was up on July 8, and I have certified to her bills accordingly.

Mrs. Van Antwerp seeing the need for more time being spent in this field than your appropriation allowed me to engage her to work for remuneration, told me she would continue to apply herself without remuneration for a time, and has done so.

It is within your power to vote that she be paid for the fifth week of service, if you do not care to accept her valuable service gratis. In the event of your doing this her fifth week will end July 15 and I think the regular force can cope with the situation unassisted after that date.

We have made 751 investigations. Several cases have been detected in the early stages and quarantined, thereby lessening the number of exposures.

Many cases have occurred when people in quarantine needed special reminding of what was expected of them.

There are forty-one cases of scarlet fever in quarantine at present and most of these occurred early in June.

Since our June meeting a decision has been handed down by the state board of charities and the state board of health to the effect that when people who are in quarantine need fuel and food and have not, prior to being quarantined, been receiving these from the alms department, that it is the duty of the board of health to supply these articles. If, however, the alms department is at the time of quarantine, supplying rations, they are to continue this service.

He became corporation counsel in 1904 and was elected to the supreme court bench in 1910. He was corporation counsel of the city of New York at the time the city made application before the State Water Supply Commission for permission to use the waters of Esopus creek for the city's additional water supply, and represented the city throughout the hearing before the state commission in this city.

MEDICAL SOCIETY HAS "A BULLY TIME"

Once upon a time the Greene County Medical Society was invited to meet with the Medical Society of the County of Ulster as its guest and only two doctors from Greene county responded. The Greene County Society invited the Ulster County Society to meet with it as its guest at the Catskill Mountain House on Tuesday of this week, and just to show that there were no hard feelings and to give the Greene county doctors an object lesson in the way to respond to an invitation, Ulster county doctors and their wives and friends turned out to the number of more than 50 and had what Colonel Roosevelt would call "a bully time" at the famous old mountain resort.

The McBride drug store on Broadway was the rendezvous of the medical men of Ulster county, together with their wives or friends, when the pilgrimage was to be made to the Catskill Mountain House. At the appointed hour a gay procession of some fifteen motor cars started for the Mountain House, those Ulster county physicians attending being Dr. Henry Van Hovenberg, Dr. E. E. Norwood, Dr. A. A. Stern, Dr. Mark O'Meara, Dr. H. W. A. Haase, Dr. Ross of Port Ewen, Secretary Dr. J. R. Gillette, Dr. Cyrus R. Baker, Dr. Frank L. Eastman, Dr. A. C. Gates, Dr. G. F. Rice, Dr. L. P. Desmond, Dr. Raymond Sanderson, Dr. J. S. Robinson, Dr. A. S. Vrooman, Dr. A. H. Mambert, Dr. W. J. Cranston, Dr. L. K. Stelle, Dr. George C. Basten, Dr. W. D. Hasbrouck, Dr. J. Bongartz, Dr. Frank Keator, Dr. H. P. Van Wagenen, Dr. O. D. B. Ingalls, Dr. E. H. Loughran, Dr. E. D. B. Loughran, Dr. Crawford, Dr. G. F. Harker of Kerhonkson, Dr. M. E. Stephens of Gardiner, President, Dr. Luther Emerick of Saugerties, Dr. Waterbury of Kinderhook. The party reached the foot of the Catskill road at Palenville about noon, where they were given a cordial welcome by the Greene county physicians, the officers of the Greene County Society being Dr. Charles P. McCabe of Greenville, president; Dr. George L. Branch of Catskill, vice president; Dr. Robert Selden of Catskill, secretary and Dr. Charles E. Willard of Catskill, treasurer.

To many of the party, the visit was their first to this famous and delightful old hostelry on the mountain top, and in the hour before dinner the marvelous view was admired to the full and a little sight-seeing about the place enjoyed. Dinner was served at one o'clock, and the great dining hall, made especially attractive with its decorations of mountain laurel and ferns and when the entire delegation was assembled they practically filled the hall. A most elaborate and delicious repast was served by genial host, Mr. Beach, and was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by the guests. During the serving of dinner a sharp electric shower arose, entirely obscuring the view, greatly to the regret of all. Yet in its lifting from the country below, the marvelously beautiful cloud and atmospheric effects more than compensated for the disappointment of the rain. Following the dinner, each society held a brief business meeting which was in turn followed by a joint scientific meeting of both organizations.

The business meeting of the Ulster County Society was devoted to a vain effort to induce some member to promise to prepare a paper to be read at the September meeting of the Third District Branch, with a slight hope that Health Officer Stelle will be prevailed upon to come to the rescue, and a failure to act on a number of applications for membership because the censors had not as yet been able to act on all of them.

The scientific session was presided over by McCabe of the Greene County Society and the guest of honor, Dr. W. Stanton Gleason of Newburgh, president of the state society, gave an informal talk on "Medical Economics," in the course of which he commended the profession for the work it was doing in improving sanitary conditions, but urged that the members be more completely absorbed in work for the public good that they forget to take measures for their own welfare and protection. A discussion on Obstetrics followed opened by Dr. Keator and Dr. Gillette of this city and participated in by a number of others.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Atlanta, Ga., July 14.—Military authorities were alert today guarding against rumored plans to attack the State Prison farm at Milledgeville, where Leo M. Frank, convicted slayer of 14 year old Mary P. Hagan, is serving a life term. The reports received by Governor Harris stated that an attempt would be made to take Frank from the prison farm authorities. The rumors were vague and it was heard on one side that friends of Frank intended to use force to liberate him, and in some quarters it was reported that persons who think Frank should have been hanged intended to lynch him.

Three companies of state troops were assembled at Macon today ready to make a hurried trip to Milledgeville, 25 miles distant, in case their presence was required. Latest reports today from the prison farm stated that all was quiet there but that extra guards would be put on duty.

FORCED TO WEAR SHOES

HERE'S an item that may interest believers in tyrannous Prohibition laws:

KOKOMO, Ind.—John Puckett, the Tipton County farmer who never wore shoes, though he is the owner of 2,000 acres of land, appeared here today wearing a heavy pair of shoes. He used to say that God gave him a pair of soles, and he had no use for others, but when asked today if his God-given soles had worn out, he replied: "No, they're still good; but since Tipton County went dry there are so many broken bottles around that it's dangerous to go barefoot."

Prohibition may compel men to wear shoes, but it will not destroy a man's desire for such food-drinks as

WILSON'S NOTE WILL BE VIGOROUS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, July 14.—Regarding the significant White House statement issued here last night at the direction of President Wilson, officials today awaited with intense interest the chief executive's return to the capital and the cabinet meeting which will be devoted to consideration of the situation which has arisen between Germany and the United States.

The president's promise, announced in his communication to Private Secretary Tumulty that "there will be as prompt announcement as possible of the purposes of this government" has served to dispel the impression that the president does not regard with extreme concern the strained relations of the two countries. Reports that the president appeared not to be worried over the outlook and that optimism prevailed at Cornish have been negated by the between-the-lines construction placed on his telegram.

There is nothing in the telegram which says that drastic action is to be taken by the United States, but for some reason official Washington today interprets Mr. Wilson's brief promise as foreshadowing a prompt and vigorous reply to the German note of last week.

It is understood here that the White House statement was given out to correct certain published reports which officials felt might convey the wrong idea about the administration's point of view. Under the circumstances it is thought difficult to believe that when the president returns he and his cabinet will take steps to curtail extended diplomatic correspondence with Germany and that the note of this government on Germany's submarine warfare will have the ring of finality.

It is not believed the United States will recede in any degree from the position it has taken. In February Germany was warned that this government would not omit any word or act necessary for the protection of the lives and rights of Americans and that the high seas were the arena of diplomatic record. It is not the habit of the president "to back pedal" in domestic affairs and close students of the German-American controversy declare that Mr. Wilson cannot but reiterate the views heretofore so clearly expressed by him. Likewise it is not assumed that he wishes to avoid the issue. That there is reason to be apprehensive is the general feeling here. Germany has made counter proposals, the very nature of which forbid their acceptance by the United States. The Kaiser's government, however, has not accompanied these counter proposals with any offer of reparation for the American lives lost on the Lusitania nor is there a promise that other Americans will not be destroyed in a similar manner. The most Germany promises is that if Americans will follow certain recommendations of the German government, such as travelling on marked ships, immunity from attack will be guaranteed.

Official and diplomatic circles hardly expect President Wilson and his cabinet to enter into such a bargain. Meanwhile there is manifest a growing impatience over the disposition of Germany to engage in lengthy diplomatic correspondence which does not affect the real issue involved—an issue of principle relating to the untrammelled freedom of the sea lanes so far as neutrals are concerned.

Under these unhappy circumstances it is believed that the forthcoming note of the United States will write "finis" to further parleying. So long as Germany foregoes further attacks upon ships which carry Americans there is a possibility that the situation will not become more acute than it now is. This, however, still would leave unsettled the question of reparation for and disavowals of the Lusitania attack and also the question of the Lusitania in a quandary as to how to make good on its "accountability" warning.

The impression here is that the matter is not one to be viewed with optimism and the cabinet meeting which will take up the evasive German answer will be one of the most important in the history of the country. It is thought that the president and the cabinet will consider the German crisis next Tuesday. Meanwhile, Secretary Lansing is preparing a memorandum for the use of the president in the drafting of a reply to the Kaiser.

This will be a feature of every meeting and the band will be used when the lodge appears in public.

ELKS WILL DANCE ON THE STREET

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Los Angeles, July 14.—Committee reports occupied the attention of the delegates to the Grand Lodge convention of the B. P. O. Elks at today's business session. Work was rushed to a conclusion early and the Elks gave over their attention to the entertainment features of the day.

A massed band parade started the festivities this morning, followed by an allegorical floral parade. Crack drill corps of lodges from all parts of the country took part in the exhibition drills at exposition park this afternoon.

Tonight all the members of the various drill teams will be guests at a banquet at the Elks club and at 10 p. m. a mammoth open air dancing party will be given. The dance "floor" will extend for four blocks along Olive street.

The Atlanta delegates today were acclaimed real sportsmen. After they lost their hard fight for the next convention of the Grand Lodge to Baltimore, the Atlanta men gave a big dinner to the victors and drank a toast to their victory.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Mary Ryan of this city has been admitted to probate by Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court. The testatrix directs that the sum of $100 be expended for a monument over her grave in St. Mary's cemetery. To her children, Edward Ryan and Margaret L. Zoller, she bequeaths the contents of her house at No. 41 Burnett street, and the balance of the estate she gives equally to her children, Edward Ryan, Margaret L. Zoller, William Ryan and Mary Bush. Edward Ryan is named executor. The will was executed June 7, 1915, and witnessed by Christopher A. Murray and Margaret Corcoran. The value of the estate is $1,000 personal property. Christopher A. Murray appeared for the executor.

Estate Appraised.
County Treasurer Snyder as appraiser under the taxable transfer act has filed his report of appraisal of the estate of Dr. Charles T. Montgomery of Saugerties. The personal property amounts to $54,529.60; the real estate is valued at $8,000; the debts, commissions, expenses of administration, etc., amount to $26,078.35, leaving a net estate of $36,451.25, on which the inheritance tax amounts to $1,178.49. Richard C. Washburn, the executor, was represented by Byron L. Davis; Joseph H. Vanderlyn appeared for the state comptroller.

Reports of appraisals of the following estates also have been filed: Samuel B. Low of Ellenville. The personal property amounts to $9,551.82; the real estate is valued at $2,850; the debts, commissions, expenses of administration, etc., amount to $7,796.93, leaving a net estate of $4,704.89, which is exempt from taxation. Alice H. Low, the executrix, was represented by Raymond G. Cox; Joseph H. Vanderlyn appeared for the state comptroller.

Belle Conroy Guilshan of Kingston city. The personal property amounts to $2,190.86; the real estate is valued at $350; the debts, commissions, expenses of administration, etc., amount to $658.15, leaving a net estate of $1,882.71, on which there is no tax. Albert Marks and Mary Conroy, the executors, were represented by Brinnier & Canfield; Joseph H. Vanderlyn appeared for the state comptroller.

Sheridan is Insane.

Philip Sheridan was taken to the Middletown State Hospital for the insane this afternoon, having been committed there by Judge Jenkins on the certificates of Dr. Keator and Dr. Stelle. He was brought to the county jail ten days ago from Marlborough on the charge of being drunk and disorderly and since then he has been acting strangely in the jail. Today he told his jailer that there was a mob coming up from Richmond to lynch him and asked for protection. Later he said he was expecting a call from Governor Whitman.

Engineer Pardee Recovering.

John Pardee of South Rondout, who was recently injured badly by being caught in a shaft on the tug McCullough of the Cornell line of which he is engineer, is improving nicely at the Kingston City Hospital. His relatives are loud in praise of the courteous treatment extended by the officers of the Cornell Steamboat Company and of the steamer E. B. Gardner which brought him to this city.

Fire on Steamboat Pier.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 14.—Fire broke out on the pier of the Hamburg-American Line at West 25th street and the North river at noon today. It was brought under control with small loss, but an investigation was set on foot to learn whether an incendiary or dynamite was responsible for the blaze. The police assert that the fire was caused by an electric wire.

PHILLIPS MAY BE MADE APPRAISER

Augustus J. Phillips of this city was suggested as one of the three appraisers of the stock of the bankrupt firm of J. B. Greenhut Company of New York city at the hearing before Referee in Bankruptcy Olney in New York on Tuesday.

The New York Daily Trade Record says that there was discussion at the hearing of the personnel of those who are to appraise the property before it is offered at the sale, which is expected to provide the opportunity for the new Greenhut Company to buy in the assets and continue the business under the plan which will net creditors 27½ per cent cash. The trustees suggested the names of Andrew M. Nielsen, of the accounting firm of West & Flint, who is familiar with the Greenhut business, and Augustus J. Phillips, until recently merchandise manager for the many departments of R. H. Macy & Company, and who was an appraiser of the A. D. Matthews Sons' stock. The name of the third appraiser was left open.

The suggestion of the names of Messrs. Nielsen and Phillips brought the first objection from Morris J. Hirsch, representing claims of bondholders totaling $253,000. The regular procedure, he proposed, was for the referee to select the three appraisers, and he could see no reason why a different plan should be followed. Mr. Rosenberg, one of the attorneys for the trustees of the bankrupt firm, replied to this that the trustees considered it their duty to the creditors to submit to the referee in open court the names of the men they felt best qualified for the work. Mr. Phillips had been asked by Trustee William A. Marble if he would serve, he said. It was also explained that Mr. Marble had just completed the work of classifying all the Greenhut assets into 97 departments. It was soon after this statement was made that Mr. Hirsch made the charge that the proposed form of sale rendered it practically impossible for an individual bidder to come in, on the ground that he would have no chance against the bid of the re-organizers.

The book assets of the firm on June 30 were $18,471,683. The matter was adjourned by the referee until next Tuesday afternoon.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The dance held by the Loyal Friends Aid Society at the Oriental Pavilion, Kingston Point, Tuesday evening, proved a success. In spite of the uncertain weather quite a large crowd assembled. A nice amount was profited which of course adds a great deal toward helping the poor.

Uffster Park, July 14.—On Saturday evening, July 10, a small reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Schenck in honor of their daughter, Marion, the occasion being her 14th birthday. At 10 o'clock dainty refreshments were served, after which Charles and Clarence Beehler rendered some very pretty selections on the piano and violin. Those present were Zelma Terpening, Florence Terpening, Marion Schenck, Decker Gardner and Joseph Straley of Uffster Park, Clarence and Charles Beehler of St. Remy and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis of New York. The happy party departed at midnight, voting their hostess a royal entertainer.

A delightful surprise was given Gordon Corey at his home, 744 Broadway Tuesday afternoon in honor of his 10th birthday by 21 of little friends, who presented him with many handsome and useful gifts. Games were played and luncheon was served between the hours of 4:30 and 5:30, after which the little folks departed, wishing him many happy returns. Among those present were the Misses Ruth and Bess Dressel, Sadie and Beatrice Conway, Dorothy Strubel, Evelyn Right, Florence Van Gabeck, Katherine Ryan and Louise Corey, the Messrs. Fred Dressel, Clarence Right, Frederick Davis, Paul Nelson, Howard and Ara Winchell, Charles and Harold Woolsey, Ernest Robert and William Steuding and Gordon Corey. Slide on Panama Canal.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Panama, July 14.—A new slide has occurred on the east side of the Panama canal at the Gallard cut and threatens to delay the passage of the warships having on board the Annapolis cadets. Rapid dredging is going on and a very possible effort is being made to permit the passage of deep-draft vessels.

Rich, but Wretched.

Frederick Albert, the third Krupp, became the richest man in the German empire's dominions. When he died, in 1902, his estate was valued at nearly $200,000,000. Perhaps the inability of wealth to bestow happiness was never more strikingly exemplified than in his case. He was a dyspeptic, forbidden all the delights of the table and to smoke. Of late years a physician never left his side. A fearful melancholy claimed him, and his life was overshadowed by a nervous depression. All the world was wrong.—Pearson's Weekly.

Asparagus and Cabbage.

Cabbage, strange to tell, once grew without a head. It is a native of Europe. Wild cabbage, or the cabbage without a head, is called collards. Cultivation put a head on collards. Cabbage comes down by transmission from "cabbage."

One of the oldest culinary vegetables is asparagus. Piny and Cato ate it for rheumatic gout and praised it highly. We are growing it today in perfection. Better than they ever had it. Certain folk in lower Europe use asparagus beans as a substitute for coffee.

Qualification Necessary.

An ex-corporal of the regular army wanted a job in the park spearing bits of paper and other debris with a sharp pointed stick.

"Do I have to take a civil service examination?" he asked the district leader.

"I guess not," said the man of influence. "Just bring me a letter from your captain stating that you are proficient in bayonet drill. That ought to convince the commissioner that you're qualified for the job."—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Unappreciated.

The lady killer was boasting of his prowess. "One girl whom I knew," he said, "actually died for love of me. I was her last thought."

They eyed him malevolently. "I should think," remarked one of them, "that you might be anybody's last thought!"—New York Times.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 14, 1915.

The efforts of representatives of New York City to secure control of the State Legislature have failed. The Committee on Legislative Organization, which will doubtless be upheld by the Convention itself, has determined by a vote of 9 to 5 to leave the apportionment substantially as it is at present. As we have frequently explained, this system is more in accordance with the spirit of our institutions than would be an apportionment based solely on population. Alfred E. Smith, one of the members of the Convention, and who is also Democratic leader in the Assembly, declares that this feature of the proposed new Constitution will cause it to be rejected at the polls, but such talk strikes us as foolish, since, if the voters of the metropolis should roll up a decisive majority against the new Constitution it would merely leave them under the existing Constitution, which is no more favorable to their selfish interests. Furthermore, the Convention should not be influenced by such considerations. If the Constitution is rejected, no harm will be done. The present one is plenty good enough, and the small vote on the proposition to hold a Convention showed that there was very little interest in the subject.

Another good recommendation made by the Committee on Legislative Organization of the Constitutional Convention is that no more State Censuses be taken, but that apportionments be based hereafter on the figures of the Federal Census. The census which has just been taken is costing the State $600,000, and it is unsatisfactory to everybody. Kingston is not the only city which is accorded a less population than there is reason to believe exists. New York city is at least 500,000 below reasonable estimates, and possibly three times as much as that. The enumerators do the best they can, and the majority of them are capable persons, but they are recruited from various occupations and lack experience. Census taking is a trade which has to be learned, the same as any other. Of course, the same objection lies against the method of taking the Federal census. This weakness might be remedied by creating a force of trained enumerators who would stick to that work all the time, going from State to State. It is true that in this way we should never know the number of our inhabitants on any one day, but we do not know that now, and the advantage of having figures made up by experts instead of amateurs would be great.

The Court of Appeals of this State has decided that the Workmen's Compensation law is constitutional. Judge Miller says in his opinion that "this subject should be viewed in the light of modern conditions, not those under which the common law doctrines were developed." He also says that the act "seems to be fundamentally fair to both employer and employee." With these ideas pretty nearly everybody agrees. When the act was pending no notable opposition to its general principles developed. Nevertheless, there are features of the law as administered which, while constitutional, are none the less outrageous. The delay in handling accident cases has been inexcusable. Eight months ago an employee of the Freeman was injured, and up to this time the matter has not been disposed of. This is not by any means an exceptional case. Furthermore, it is extremely unjust that any class of working people should be exempted from the law. It is just as bad to be injured while working at a "non-hazardous" trade as at a hazardous one. The law is a step in the right direction, but it is a short and halting one.

Since the State has not yet seen fit to regulate motor-cyclists, the City of New York has been obliged, in view of the increasing number of accidents for which these machines are responsible, to enact an ordinance requiring them to carry numbers and lights and submit to registration. Unfortunately, smaller cities, which are equal sufferers, cannot follow the example of the metropolis without causing confusion which would make regulation a farce, and the rural regions are in the same situation. An amendment to the Callan act covering this subject is badly needed. While the Legislature is about it, it might be well to require the placing of identifying numbers upon all vehicles. Motorists are no more of a menace on the highways than some drivers of wagons who ignore the rules of the road. It is a poor law which does not treat all classes of people alike, and that is what all the Callan act. No one who has studied the subject doubts that it would be declared unconstitutional if anyone thought it worth while to institute a test case.

THE SPEEDER.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

It is a pity that automobilists who are careful and considerate of the rights of others should have to suffer from the reflected indifference and carelessness of many who seem not to care what happens to others so long as they gain a few minutes of time. The few who wildly rush ahead, thoughtless of consequences and seemingly blind to all else but the pleasure of speeding, pass their heritage of disrepute to those who do not in the least merit criticism.

The many automobilists who take their pleasures sanely because they enjoy the changing beauties of the countryside and because they heed the promptings of safety for themselves and others on the road, resent just as bitterly as do the non-motorists the riotous pace so disturbing to quieter folk.

Those who for years have found their chief pleasure in riding behind their favorite horses along a beautiful stretch of country road still find no break in their enjoyment at the hands of the automobilist mindful of interests other than his own; but they have grown fearful of the disturber of the highway peace who does not stop to consider whether he has room to pass, but passes, generally in safety, sometimes at serious cost; who crosses roads without due regard for the possible approach of another vehicle, and who, in general, conducts himself as if monarch of all he surveys and the whole world else must make his chances.

And cautious motorists are as fearful of the common enemy as are the horsemen.

And if one happens to be a mere pedestrian! The road may be narrow or it may be wide, but he must scramble to safety as best he may, taking the cloud of dust that arises with as good grace as may be summoned.

Even the humblest walker along a country road has aspirations, and in day dreams sees himself transformed from an idler along the wayside into the serene, contented owner of a big touring car; but in his dreams there appear no obscuring clouds of dust, sound no maddeningly familiar "honk, honk" or other nerve-breaking signals, and the big car goes on its peaceful way without harrowing the spirits and threatening the lives of those it meets or passes in its travels.

If the dreamer comes to a realization of his visions and then lapses into the thoughtless ways of the speeder, some folk, with their dreams still in embryo, will wish him forever back to his modest walks.

The motorist who loves the country more than the exhilaration of whirling along through space is the one who gets the most real enjoyment from his car. The thrill of mere speed and the pleasure of making an engine respond to the call for haste and still more haste are incomparable with the greater thrill and pleasure attendant upon longer looks. That is, they are to those of us who love the long looks when we are out under the open heavens.

And one wonders how anyone can be so indifferent to the real mission of the automobile as to pervert it to mere speeding, which might just as well be on a race-track as anywhere else, for all the riders see. For, whether on vacation thoughts intent or just half-day trips into the country, it has wonderful possibilities for bringing the country close—and this, just jogging along at a safe and sane pace.

In these summer days of plenty of rain, all nature is gloriously awake, and while the mere speeder is making time, a record for himself and gathering disrepute along the way, the slower traveler is reveling in the beauties of the road. The splendid fields of grain shimmering in the sunlight—it's a shame to pass them by like the wind; and the posies growing by the wayside must hide their heads when the speeder goes by. But the speeder doesn't care, if he only makes time.

If the highways could be once again reserved for the many who are willing to abide by the rules of the road, slow-going motorists, horsemen, pedestrians and all would be thankful indeed and would bid the speeder a merry good-bye.

For the highways are very alluring, with their ever-changing touches and whether one walks along or motors along or drives a peaceful horse, it would be a real treat once more to feel secure from the terror-spreading invader of the roads.

A Bad Habit.

Emerson Kenough, the governmental efficiency expert, said in an address on efficiency, in correspondence before the Denver N. M. C. A.: "Why shouldn't business correspondence read as easily and gracefully as a personal letter? Well, efficient business correspondence does so. The world is tired of the old-fashioned business letter with everything reversed, like:

"Yours of 11 ulto, to hand, as per duplicate order inclosed, for shoes, high, laced, vici, eight dozen; shirt, assorted, calico, two dozen; socks black, wool, sizes assorted four dozen."

"They say that one of these old-fashioned correspondents who reverse everything went into a restaurant one day and ordered his dinner like this:

"Pudding rice, one; tomatoes, 'ere; po, ditto, ditto; steak, beef, one; soup le turt; mock one."—Denver Post.

A Cynic.

Mr. Carnegie, the evening he addressed the Rockefeller Bible class at the Aldine Club in New York, had occasion to refer to a cynic.

"Oh, he was a great cynic," declared Mr. Carnegie. "Once, advising me to take a mean advantage of a rival, he said:

"We must profit by other people's mistakes—like the ministers do when they marry us, you know."—New York World.

Sensitive Patriots.

"The French army contains many volunteers of 50 and even 60 years," said L. E. Moussin de Saint Laurent, the French consul to Chicago. "These patriots are very sensitive about their age. If they are spared for reasons of age, it makes them angry."

"Before the Meuse and Moselle campaign, a captain said to one of these patriots, a fine old fellow with a grey beard:

"We shan't ask you to charge from the trench with your company, my man. It will be enough for you to stay behind and help with the ammunition wagons. You are a veteran, I see. I suppose it is many a long year since you fought your first battle. What was your first battle, may I ask?"

"The veteran saluted and answered sarcastically: 'A battle with a cave bear that I fought with a flint hatchet in the stone age, sir.'—Chicago Record-Herald.

Viscount Uffington.

EARL OF CRAVEN'S SON TO JOIN ARMY IN BERMUDA.

New York, July 14.—Viscount Uffington, eighteen year old son of the Earl of Craven and a grandson of the late Bradley Martin, was a passenger on the S. S. St. Paul, arriving from Liverpool. He was met at the pier by his uncle, Bradley Martin, and is now on his way to Bermuda to join the territorial troops.

His father is Lord Lieutenant of Warwickshire and enlists the territorialists of his country. His home is Coombe Abbey, Coventry.

When asked if he would, like to wed an American heiress, the young man replied that he would not be averse to such a romantic adventure.

The Viscount is a fine looking example of the athletic young Britisher, with a ready smile and some inherited sense of American humor.

The wedding of his mother, Miss Cornelia Martin, to the Earl of Craven about nineteen years ago at Grace Church, is remembered as one of the most brilliant of international marriages. Many notable guests were present, and the reception that followed was almost regal in splendor.

The Viscount is suffering from a slight wound in the hand, received presumably at target practice. A big pistol dropped out of his coat pocket in the presence of the customs officials.

CLOTHING WORKERS' STRIKE SPREADS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 14.—The crisis in the garment makers' strike came today when 11,000 knee pants and vest makers joined the ten thousand pants makers already on strike, and 30,000 coat makers met to vote on the question of tying up the entire industry in New York city. Five thousand clothing cutters will meet tomorrow night and take a strike vote.

Telegrams have been sent to the garment makers unions in Chicago, Buffalo, Rochester, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Newark, N. J., and other cities warning them that the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America were considering a general strike and asking them not to fill any orders from New York.

Sidney Hillman, president of the garment makers union, predicted that more than fifty thousand men would be out within the next 24 hours.

Microbe Killers.
The odor of clothes has been known to destroy microbes in 35 minutes; cin-namin will kill some species in 12 minutes; thyme in 35 minutes. In 45 minutes common wild verberna is found effective while the odor of some ger-anium flowers has destroyed various forms of microbes in 50 minutes.

FOOD REACHING MEXICO CITY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, July 14.—The Carranzista authorities have given the right of way to food trains over troop trains on the railroad from Vera Cruz to Mexican capital and provisions already are being brought in to meet the famine situation, according to a report from the Brazilian minister there, transmitted to the state department today
by Consul General Silliman at Vera Cruz.

Silliman's dispatch from the Brazilian minister confirmed the complete occupation of the city and the control of the water station by General Gonzales's forces. Assurances of full protection have been given by Gonzales to the British charge as well as to the Brazilian minister for all foreign residents of the capital.
Notice of severe punishment for in-fractures of this order has been posted in the city.

Wireless communication between Mexico City and Vera Cruz to the Eastward and Aguascalientes to the north is to be established immediately. The director of telegraphs stated to the Brazilian minister yesterday that communication with Aguascalientes probably would be established today. A wireless outfit is to be installed on the heights of Chapultepec. Nine miles of the overland cable connecting Vera Cruz with Mexico City was destroyed during the recent fighting. The first press dispatches out of Mexico City since June 18 reached Vera Cruz
last night.

A state department dispatch from Central Mexico today reported the taking of Aguascalientes by the Car-ranzistas. It was stated that General Villa is going north and that his forces probably had abandoned Aguascalientes before the Carranzistas advanced.

The department had no dispatches today confirming the reported occupation of Saltillo by the Car-ranzistas. Neither had it news of the southward advance of the Vil-lista army which has occupied Silao, Leon, Irapuato and Guanajuato and has penetrated to within eighty miles of Mexico City. This force came from San Luis Potosi over the railroad running southward from Piedras Negras through Saltillo to Guanajuato.

FISHERMAN'S GOOD LUCK.

Big Trout Landed Under Difficulties
and in Novel Manner.

Being restless and unable to sleep
the other night, I arose about one o'clock and thought I would take a walk. As I sauntered down the road my attention was arrested, while crossing the bridge that spans the Peck Hollow stream at Shandaken, by loud cries for "help" coming from the stream below. Looking over the railing of the bridge I discovered a lone fisherman seated on the rocks having a violent struggle with a big trout that he had hooked. This fisherman not expecting to catch any fish had left his landing net about fifty feet away from him up the bank and being thus handicapped was unable to land his captive. I watched the unequal struggle with great interest for twenty minutes, and all the time the air resounded with lusty shouts for "help." It seems that this fisherman, whose name I afterward learned was Thompson, had two companions on the stream, but they had left him and had gone about half a mile up the Peck Hollow stream to try their luck. Soon they came hurrying down to the aid of their friend. As soon as he heard them coming he cried out, "Get the net;
get the net." "Well, where is it?"
"I dunno; somewhere up there on the bank." As it was quite dark and they had no light it struck me that this was neither an indefinite location. However, after groping about for some ten minutes Mr. O'Connor, (I learned afterward that this was his name), found the net. He at once ran down to the edge of the stream and as the fish was drawn close to the rocks on the second attempt he succeeded in netting him tail on, which struck the observer as a rather peculiar method of manipulating the net. Notwithstanding the fact that the fish had been lifeless for about ten minutes, our fisherman at once got a strangle hold on him and proceeded to break his neck, which was a way he had of putting his captive out of misery. It proved to be a splendid sixteen inch brown trout, caught on a fat, squirming garden hackle. Mr. Cramer, the other companion, will be able to substantiate the truth of this incident, and can probably add other interesting details.

The reader can well imagine the excitement caused by this capture, as it was the largest fish that Mr. T. had ever landed. Great beads of perspiration rolled from his brow.
He was "all in" when his friends arrived, and they afterwards joked him about his feeble condition.

Roumanian Characteristics.

The Roumanians are fond of their folk tales and proverbs. One of the most popular of the proverbs is: "The Roumanian never dies." The Roumanpride shown in the proverb is exempli-

TURK BARBED WIRE ENTANGLEMENTS AT DARDANELLES.

Every possible place along the Gallipoli Peninsula has been strung with barbed wire entanglements by the Turks and Germans to impede the progress of the Allies. Miles upon miles of this sort of barrier has been encountered by the British, French and Italian forces. The wire is strung from posts and these in turn are aerated along the edges to make passage more difficult.
The picture shows some of the entanglements with warships in the background.

WHY POTASH IS SCARCE.

War Has Isolated Stassfurt, Saxony Town That Produces Potash.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, D. C., July 14.—"The war isolation of the little town of Stassfurt in the province of Saxony, Prussia, with its neighborhood richly productive of potash salts, has caused more stir and annoyance in the neutral world than the isolation of many larger and much more famous places," begins a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society, which tells of the work that has been done by the United States Geological Survey toward the determination of adequate native sources of this necessary mineral.

"Germany has been the world's great source of potassium compounds used in the preparation of fertilizers and in industrial processes. The production of these salts for world-demand has centered at Stassfurt, a little town of 20,000 on the Bode river, 20 miles south of Magdeburg. The United States has been a heavy taker of the German output importing millions of dollars worth each year. While the bulk of the potash salts is employed in the manufacture of manure salts, large quantities are consumed in the soap, match, glass-making, cloth-finishing and pharmaceutical industries. Especially has the general chemical industry felt a lack of potash salts, since the promulgation by the German government in January, of this year, of an embargo upon the export of the salts.

"Experts of the United States Geological Survey have scoured the country for a number of years in search of a domestic supply of potash salts. The survey's efforts were redoubled upon the German source becoming inaccessible. The work has extended from New York to California and from Michigan to Louisiana. Thus far no sources of supply in any way approaching the commercial value of those at Stassfurt have been uncovered.

"Potassium, never free, but in various compounds, is present throughout the world in inexhaustible supply. The difficulty is that in many of its forms it has hitherto proved unfeasible of commercial exploitation. The oceans are vast reservoirs of potash salts. Such common rock forms as feldspar and mica, distributed around the world, contain potassium, as do other rarer occurrences, such as a alunite, a sulphate of potassium and aluminum. Kelp, or seaweed, is worked for potash salts. Stassfurt remains the chief of world sources, however, as its salts are rich and easily worked, while processes for the production of the salts from kelp, alunite, feldspar, and mica have not yet been translated into successful commercial endeavor.

"In search of salts as rich and as workable as those of Germany, the Geological Survey has sent its representatives throughout the country, collecting and examining artificial brines and bitterns at all salt-making establishments in the land; carrying or deep drilling for saline residues wherever conditions suggested promise to the effort deposits of alunite and other minerals containing potassium have been investigated, and, finally considerable laboratory work has been done in the endeavor to make the reduction of such potassium-bearing compounds as we have commercially possible. And still the salt mines of Germany, the first and best source of supply.

"The Stassfurt region has for many years been the source of the world's supply of potash salts. Their production has been controlled by a syndicate to which all of the firms producing this commodity belong. Each year, what proportion of that year's production might be exported and what must be retained for domestic use, has been determined by the executive of this syndicate. Also, total productions have been determined and allotted, year by year, thus effecting a conservation of Germany's supply. In 1914, the German Potash Syndicate determined upon a total production of all kinds of potash salts of 1,166,600 metric tons for the year. Of this amount, 531,300 tons were allotted for export.

"A hampering lack of potash salts has been the result of the isolation of little, unknown Stassfurt. There are other sources. Deposits in Galicia have assumed importance in connection with the war, potash salts being necessary in the preparation of explosives. These deposits were found near Kalusz, and plans have been made to work them on a large scale. Texas, California and New Mexico are among the most promising fields for possible potash production in this country."

Be Clean and Flyless

Cleanliness is more than half the battle against the fly menace.

How Dish Covers Originated.

Dishes brought to table were not in the first instance covered merely to keep the food warm. In mediaeval days people were afraid that poison might be introduced into food between the kitchen and the table; hence the cook was ordered to cover the dishes, and the covers were not removed until the master of the house sat down to eat. The wholesomeness of the food was first tested by the servants, who were required to taste it before it was served, and if they came safely through the trial the food was all right. Later on, instead of the food being tasted it was tested by certain objects which were supposed to be infallible antidotes against poison.

A very exciting time occurred in Ellenville on Center street near the Jewish Synagogue on Sunday when a Hebrew driving down the street a horse tied behind got tangled with a rope around the hub of wheel pulling the horse against the wagon upsetting the same throwing out the two men. One Polack was rendered unconscious and was thought at first to be dead. The horse in front of wagon ran away and created no end of excitement. The Polack was taken to the office of Dr. B. Franklin Neal, where with the kindly offices of the doctor his head was sewed up in one or more places and later in the day he was sent to his home on the outskirts of the village in the private carriage of the doctor.

Parsnip wine was made by British housewives before emigration to America set in, and the art of making this wine was brought over by the early immigrants. There was also in colonial time in America a drink which was called peppermint wine, or peppermint liqueur.

Clicquot ClubPronounced Klee-to
GINGER ALE The Best in the World

A drink of chilling, bubbling Clicquot Club is as refreshing as a cooling, drenching shower. Clicquot Club Ginger Ale can be safely enjoyed when you are overheated. The ginger offers a mild stimulus which neutralizes the "ice cold" shock to the stomach. Clicquot is real ginger ale, made with ginger, juices of lemons and limes and sweetened with refined sugar, not saccharin. The mildly laxative water is from a deep, pure spring.

Clicquot Club Ginger Ale is an excellent summer drink for women and children. It is splendid by itself and a splendid basis for mixing with all sorts of other ingredients.

The Master Motorcycle

Dominating in its established road leadership, the new Two-Speed Yale Twin marks a new chapter in motorcycle history by the phenomenal value it offers the buyer. The new Yale twin motor astounds by its wealth of power, its breathless speed, its silken smoothness of operation, its silent running. The new Yale foot starter is the most dependable and effective device produced for starting the engine with the rear wheel on the ground. The patented Yale two-speed gear which is a regularly built-in part of this machine, is generally recognized as the most practical and efficient transmission for motorcycles. And every single feature of this wonderful new machine, even down to the smallest detail, embodies the same generous fullness of value, the same excess of worth. All this without charging one cent of increased cost to the buyer for the matchless quality that characterizes every "Big Y."

Snakes in China.

It is not always safe to kill a snake in China, says the Philadelphia North American. It doesn't matter much whether the snake is of the water species or of the land variety, for within this reptile's body is supposed to reside the spirit of what the yellow man worships as the dragon king. This latter is believed by the average superstitious John to have the power of ruling over floods. This dragon king represents one symbol in the ritual of worship of the Chinese religion called Taoism.

EARNING A LIVING.

Every man owes himself a living—a clean, honest, upright living that shall be a credit to him and a help to others. It is useless to sit down and whine about what the world owes him. Whining never did any good, and besides it demeans a man. Whoever goes manfully out and makes good the debt that he owes to himself and to his fellow men will never have cause to complain that he finds the world a defaulter.

Pole Versus Equator.

Unquestionably the polar circle is steadily advancing toward the equator. From the time when the earth first took form and began its existence as a planet it has been slowly but surely cooling off, and it is as certain as anything in mathematics that some time in the future the earth will be quite cold and barren of every form of life. The polar regions will continue approaching each other, and before them the various living forms, animal and vegetable, will retreat until finally the only home of life will be a narrow belt at the equator, which itself will at last surrender to the cold, and the earth will be a "dead one."—New York American.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

We are not strong by our power to penetrate, but by our relatedness.

The world is enlarged for us, not by new objects, but by finding more affinities in those we have.

It is not talent, but sensibility which is best. Talent confines, but the central life puts us in relation to all.—Emerson.

SUBMARINES TO BE MORE CAUTIOUS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, July 14.—(By wireless).—German submarines are using every precaution to prevent loss of life on ships they attack, the admiralty announced today. It stated that passengers and sailors of the ships encountered by the submarines are given warning of the intended attack and are granted ample time to take to the boats if no resistance is attempted.

The admiralty further announced that during June German submarines had sunk 29 British, 3 French, 9 Russian and 1 Belgian merchantmen, a total of 42 ships, having an aggregate tonnage of 125,000.

The submarines also sank fishing steamers, which the admiralty declares to have been mostly armed patrol boats.

"The loss of life was remarkably small," adds the admiralty statement. "This was due to precautions taken by the submarines."

Austrian Submarine Captured.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Venice, July 14.—An Austrian submarine was captured by the Italian naval forces Monday night after it had attempted to torpedo a warship in the Adriatic. The torpedo fired by the submarine was caught in the net protecting the warship and shortly afterward the underwater craft was trapped in the net. Its crew surrendered. The warship was undamaged.

The Republic of China.

The Chinese republic is the largest republic in existence; it is the most populous single country of any kind, having nearly one-fourth of the entire population of the world. It comprises China proper (twenty-one provinces), Mongolia, Eastern Turkestan or the New territory (Sinkiang) and Tibet. The total area of Chinese territory is estimated at 4,278,352 square miles. It is larger than the United States with all its territories, combined with Germany, France and Italy.

Seven Days.

"Well, George," said William as they met in the street, "how is Arthur going on now?"

"Oh, much better," replied George. "He has been in the country for seven days to regain his strength."

"That's funny! I should have thought seven days in the country would have made one week."—New York Journal.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

O. M. Kennedy, proprietor of the General Garage, has just sold and made delivery of one Saxon touring car, 1916, to Prof. F. P. Coons, of Kingston.

The unique geographical situation of Lake Champlain—partly in New York state, partly in Vermont, and extending some distance northward into Quebec province—makes it of unusual interest and importance to the touring motorist. Long, narrow and lying almost due north and south, it would be a complete barrier to east and west road travel across that important interstate section, except that by means of its steamboat lines and ferries, frequent and reliable transit is provided between the New York and Vermont sides, connecting the main highways to and from the St. Lawrence river, Thousand Islands points and the Adirondacks with those of the northern Green Mountains, Lake Memphremagog, the White Mountains, Dixville Notch, the Maine coast and other New England resort sections.

The slight break in an otherwise all-road trip caused by Lake Champlain usually adds a pleasant variety to the tour; and by a little advance study of the steamboat and ferry time tables, which can usually be had in most of the nearby towns, the time lost by the crossing may be reduced to a minimum.

Great trunk line highways come to the shores of that lake from nearly all directions. With only incidental exceptions, there is now a continuous state road from either New York city, Binghamton or Buffalo to Saratoga Springs, Lake George village, Schroon Lake and Elizabethtown, the latter an important route center in the great Champlain valley and also one of the chief gateways into the eastern Adirondacks. Much of the quick through travel to the middle and upper Lake Champlain ports head first for Elizabethtown, thence east to Westport or north to Keeseville, Ausable Chasm and Port Kent, crossing at the latter point to Burlington; or continuing farther up the extremely picturesque west side of the lake past Bluff Point, Cliff Haven and the United States army barracks into Plattsburgh. Almost equally important is the more easterly through route up from Lake George village, running along the west side of that lake to Sagamore Landing; thence preferably by boat to Sabbath Day Point, resuming the road trip there, and continuing up through Ticonderoga, Crown Point and Port Henry to Westport or Port Kent or Plattsburgh, connecting meanwhile with the trunk line already mentioned through Elizabethtown.

Being not only the largest place on the western side of Lake Champlain, but also the meeting point of several roads across northern New York state and others down from Canada, Plattsburgh is a natural rendezvous for motoring parties crossing by boat to Burlington, the corresponding largest place on the Vermont side. Both have good hotel and garage accommodations; and throughout the touring season the service of the Champlain Transportation Company across the lake is prompt and convenient. Running directions and mileages for all of these routes including those to and from the Adirondacks and Montreal, will be found in volume 1 of the Automobile Blue Book, while any special information desired in laying out a trip can be had from the touring bureau of the New York State Motor Federation, Utica, N. Y.

Tourists from a distance who might be interested in one of the most unique short tours in the Eastern States, and not averse to leaving "state roads" for a half day or so, may continue north from Plattsburgh through Beekmantown and West Chazy village, thence east to Chazy Landing, where ferry is taken across an arm of the lake to the Isle la Motte, in the midst of Champlain. This island is connected by a bridge with the "Albany Tongue," a narrow piece of northern Vermont projected far down into the lake, and the "tongue" with both North Hero and South Hero making a continuous route through both of these islands to the "sand bar bridge" by which South Hero island is connected with the Vermont mainland. Possibly nowhere else in the United States is there another motor route of equal length (27 1/2 miles) from one island to another in the midst of a picturesque lake.

A fine system of dirt and gravel roads, very good in dry weather, extends north and south along the western half of Vermont about as far distant from Lake Champlain as an average as those on the New York side, most of them centering at Burlington. There are also several shorter crossings, among them from Larabee's Point to Ticonderoga, Chimney Point to Port Henry, from a point a few miles west of Vergennes to Westport, and also from near Charlotte to Essex. By means of these, the regular steamboat route connecting principal points on both sides of the lake, and the Chazy ferry to Isle la Motte, the tourist can lay out a schedule according to his time and inclination; and be sure of some of the most interesting scenery in this part of the country.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, July 14.—Mortimer B. Downer, who enlisted in the U. S. navy in February, 1914, has a furlough for thirty days and is spending those days at Woodstock visiting Dr. and Mrs. Downer, his parents. In August he starts in the cruiser Brooklyn for a three years' trip around the world. Mr. Downer enlisted in the hospital corps, and is pleased with the service.

Mr. Wyte gave a lecture in Firemen's Hall last Friday evening on "Peace and War."

One Monograph Lost to Literature. "The other day," said Berry M. Aull, Chiggerbite's popular undertaker, "I sat down to write a monograph on the Futility of Everything. It was a great thought—it thrilled me. But mine is a sternly logical mind. The more the truth of my great theme came home to me, the more clear it became that I would have to give up writing the monograph. For writing also is futile."—Kansas City Star.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, July 14.—The "bookies" who operate under cover on the New York race tracks these days are reaping a golden harvest. They are offering the smallest odds in the history of the turf game—and they are getting away with it.

Rarely a race is run that has less than seven or eight entries that does not have an odd-on favorite. Odds of 1-2, 1-3, 1-4, 1-5, 3-10, 2-7, 3-5, 2-5, 4-5, 7-10 and 9-10 are so frequent that they no longer excite comment. If the gambling element refused to bet at such odds the "bookies," undoubtedly, would boost them and give fairer odds. But the boob public doesn't balk, no matter what the odds, and the "bookies" are operating on a sure winning basis.

Even the odds offered against rank outsiders are extremely low, which makes it a certainty for the bookies that they will come out ahead no matter which horse romps home ahead.

Just a short time ago an animal named High Horse went to the post a 5-5 favorite—and he was left at the post. Dune Site won the race at 4 to 1—and he had almost no backing. High Horse was backed up with tens of thousands, practically all of which became "velvet" for the "bookies."

During one of the races at Aqueduct a man bet $500 on Bromo to win and $500 on Hands Off for place. Bromo won; Hands Off finished third, and although this man was on the winning horse he suffered a net loss of $225 on both bets. Bromo was at 11 to 20, giving the gambler a profit of $275 on Bromo but he lost $500 on Hands Off.

On another occasion a man bet $100 on a horse to win, $100 on another horse for place and $100 on another for show. The first two horses won but the man lost money. The odds on the winner were 1-4. The odds on the place horse were 2-5. That meant a profit of $25 on the winning horse and $40 more on the second place horse—a total of $65. But the man lost $100 on the horse that had failed to show.

Oi yoi, vat a fine business!

The racing associations throughout the country may decide at a meeting this winter to raise the weight limit for jockeys, thus enabling some of the greatest jockeys in the world to race again on the American tracks.

The low weight limit rule in force in this country has driven some of the greatest jockeys in the world from the American turf. Just about as soon as an apprentice becomes a full fledged jockey his riding days—as far as the American turf is concerned—are over. The weight limit is so low that only a rare few jockeys past 18 years of age can meet it, despite strenuous weight reducing exercise.

The result has been that apprentice jockeys—mere children in years—are almost in the majority on the American turf. The weight limit being so low the horse owners cannot hire experienced jockeys, unless they are featherweights, and trust their horses to apprentices are newly graduated jockeys.

This condition has brought about some bad racing and some fearful handling of horses. The apprentices young in years and younger still in horse knowledge, have handled horses poorly, and because of their bad handling sent many a good horse down to defeat.

The various racing associations throughout the country have become alive to this condition. Also they remember that the low weight limits, in the heyday of racing in this country, forced from the American tracks some of the best jockeys the turf game ever has known. And now that the racing game shows signs of coming back to real life they don't want the good jockeys ruled off of the turf because they weigh a few pounds more than the law prescribes.

Roundness of Earth Long Known.

The fact that the earth is round was not an original conception of Columbus. The approximate circumference was calculated in Alexandria early in the Christian era. Seven hundred years afterward practically the same result was arrived at by the Moorish geographers in Spain, where they taught geography from a globe.
